II Trading services

1. Customer classification

The Bank classifies its Customers as either Non-Professional Client, Professional Client or Eligible Counterparty in accordance with the MiFID II and its internal procedures.

A Customer has the right to request a different client categorisation. A Professional Client may request to be treated as a Non-Professional Client and an Eligible Counterparty may request to be treated as a Professional client or a Non-Professional client if the Bank accepts such a request in writing. Should the Bank agree to such categorisation, the Customer will lose certain investor protection granted to it under MiFID II.

2. Order processing

2.1 Giving an Order and the entry into force of an Order

The Customer may give an Order concerning a Financial Instrument and any related instructions to the Bank. The Orders and the related instructions shall be given over the phone or in another medium that the Bank considers appropriate.

A Request for Quote submitted by the Customer to the Bank is not considered an Order and is subject to section 3 (Request for Quote handling) below. However, to the extent applicable, the Order processing and the other parts of the Terms and conditions shall apply to Request for Quote.

A precondition for a Customer submitting an Order to the Bank is that the Customer as an organised legal entity, has obtained an LEI code and provided the Bank with information on such LEI code. For private individuals, the Bank requires information on citizenship, including possible dual citizenship, and relevant identifier information before the Bank is able to provide the Trading services. If a Customer has given authorisation to a third party, the Bank requires similar information in respect of such authorised third party.

The Bank has the right to send to the Customer written information concerning the Order by post, email or in another durable medium as the Bank considers appropriate. The Customer specifically consents to the provision by the Bank of such information (where it is required by the Market rules) by means of a website and where such information is not personally addressed to the Customer.

The Customer accepts that the use of email as a means of communication involves special risks. For example, the message may not arrive at its destination; the message may fall into the hands of a third party or a third party may alter the content of the message. The Bank has the right to rely on the authenticity and correctness of an Order it has received via email. The Customer agrees and acknowledges that the Bank is not responsible for any loss that the Customer may suffer as a consequence of the Customer choosing to send Orders by email via the open internet. The Customer making such a choice means that the Customer has given its consent to use such method. However, the Bank is responsible for the handling of the Order once it has been properly received, accepted and confirmed by the Bank. Such authorisation to use email as a means of communication is not applicable to private persons.

An Order becomes binding when it has been accepted by the Bank. The Bank may, at its discretion, refuse to accept an Order for any reason. The Bank will notify the Customer should it refuse to accept an Order but will not be under an obligation to provide an explanation for such a refusal. The Customer is responsible for the submission of the Order to the Bank. When email is used as a mode of communication, the content and timing of arrival of an Order is verified by the Bank's systems.

An Order sent by a Customer to the Bank should, at all times, include the following information, as applicable, and any other information which the Bank may reasonably require:

- 1) names of the Customer and the person who gave the Order;
- 2) type of Order (buy or sell);
- 3) type and amount of the Financial Instrument;
- 4) denomination of a physical security, if specified by the Customer;
- 5) conditions concerning the price (Limit price or Market price);
- 6) validity period of the Order;
- 7) authorisation given by a Customer, where applicable, to execute an Order during its validity on the date deemed best by the Bank; and
- 8) other information needed for the execution of the Order and settling of the Trade.

The Customer acknowledges and expressly instructs the Bank that if the Customer places a limit Order with the Bank in a Financial Instrument admitted to trading on a Trading venue which is not immediately executed under prevailing Market rules, the Bank may but will not be required to make it public by transmitting the Order to the relevant Trading venue.

The Customer is solely responsible for any Trade executed by the Bank on the basis of an accepted Order by anyone reasonably believed by the Bank in good faith to be a representative of the Customer.

2.2 Validity of an Order

An Order is valid for a fixed period unless it is executed immediately in full. If an Order does not have a specified period of validity, it will be in force for the day it is given. If the Bank's Trading service is closed at the time the Order is received, the Order will be valid and in force for the following Business day.

However, the validity of an Order expires in any case after fourteen (14) calendar days from when it has been given if the Order has not been executed or cancelled by that time, or if not otherwise agreed with the Customer, or if not otherwise stated by the Market rules.

2.3 Changing or cancelling an Order

The Customer is entitled to change an Order or cancel it before it is executed. An Order cannot be changed or cancelled in so far as it has already been executed.

A change or cancellation enters into force when the Bank has received it, and when it has been registered in the relevant Trading venue's trading system, if applicable. A change to the notional value or price of an Order will be regarded by the Bank as the cancellation and simultaneous issuing of a new Order. Changing an Order can affect that Order's priority status. If the Bank has already taken measures to execute the Order, a cancellation may incur additional expense for the Customer.

2.4 Processing the Order

The Bank will execute an Order according to the Nordea Execution Policy (cf. Nordea Execution Policy published on www.nordea.com/mifid).

The Customer confirms that it has read and expressly consents to the Nordea Execution Policy and, in particular, to Orders being executed by the Bank outside of a Trading venue.

Financial Instrument subject to sale are to be delivered to the Bank or made available to the Bank at the time the Order is given in accordance with Market rules or at some other time requested by the Bank. If necessary, the Customer must provide the Bank with documentation needed to validate acquisition of title. The Customer shall compensate any losses and expenses borne by the Bank as a result of a delay by the Customer in delivering the Financial Instrument.

The Customer is responsible for ensuring that the Customer possesses the Financial Instrument subject to a sell Order and that the Financial Instrument is sellable in accordance with the Market rules. The Bank is entitled to ensure that the Customer has the Financial Instrument in respect of which the Customer has given a sell Order or that the Customer is able to deliver the Financial Instrument within the set period and for these purposes the Bank is entitled to check the Customer's account or otherwise ensure the availability of the Financial Instrument and reserve it for settlement of the Trade.

Before executing a purchase Order, the Bank is entitled to ensure that the Customer is able to pay the purchase price of the Financial Instrument. In a purchase Order, the Bank is entitled to demand full or partial payment in advance.

On the basis of an Order or Trade, the Bank is entitled to take action to settle the Trade, to safeguard its right of retention and the Trading venue's possible right of pledge and to take other similar measures.

In connection with the execution and/or transmission (where no investment advice is provided) of an Order initiated by the Customer in respect of non-complex Financial Instrument ("execution only"), the Bank is not required to obtain information about whether the Customer has the necessary knowledge and experience of the relevant investment service or the Financial Instrument involved and the Bank will not assess whether the investment service or Financial Instrument is appropriate for the Customer.

2.5 Notification of an executed Order

The Bank will notify the Customer of an executed Order without undue delay. The notification will be sent for delivery on the Business day following the execution date of the Order, at the latest.

The Bank will notify the Customer of a Trade executed by an external Broker without delay after the Bank has received confirmation of the Trade from the external Broker in question. At the latest the notification must be posted on the Business day following the confirmation, unless otherwise agreed with the Customer.

2.6 Notifications and other information via email to Customers

If requested by the Customer, the Bank may, and is authorised to, notify the Customer by sending Trade confirmations and other information approved by the Bank) by e-mail. Such authorisation is not applicable to private persons.

In case of notifications and other information sent via email, the Customer hereby acknowledges and agrees that:

- (a) Notifications and other information via email may be altered by third parties under transmission and that third parties may become aware of the content of such email;
- (b) the origin of the email or the identity of the sender can't be verified or guaranteed;
- (c) the email may be destroyed by third parties during transmission to the Bank and the delivery of email may fail and, in such cases, the Bank will not guarantee due receipt of such delivery via email; and
- (d) the Bank does not use any means for encrypting email.

The Customer shall promptly notify the Bank of any changes to its relevant email address. The Bank reserves the right to discontinue sending information via email to the Customer at any time.

When choosing to receive such information via email, the Customer is aware and accepts the risks relating to fact that the email sent via the open Internet, is generally not a secure form of communication.

2.7 Delivery of the Financial Instrument and collateral

The Bank will take reasonable steps to ensure that Financial Instrument purchased on behalf of the Customer can be delivered to the Customer on the Settlement date of a purchase Order according to the Market rules. If all of the Financial Instrument cannot be delivered at that time, the Customer shall accept partial delivery. If the delivery is delayed or incorrect due to fault of the Bank, the Bank is liable to compensate the Customer for any direct loss caused; however, the Bank will not be liable for any indirect or consequential loss, such as loss of income or unobtained yield.

Where a sub-custodian is involved in the delivery of a Financial Instrument, the Financial Instrument will be delivered after the sub-custodian has informed the Bank of receipt of the Financial Instrument.

If a Financial Instrument subject to a sell Order is not available to the Bank as provided by the Market rules, the Customer must compensate the Bank for any losses and expenses caused by this.

The Bank is entitled, without the Customer's instruction or consent, to cancel an entry related to a Trade made to the Customer's account, if the Trade was subject to contractual settlement and the Trade cannot be settled for reasons beyond the Bank's control.

The use of Financial Instruments as collateral, and other measures safeguarding settlement as stated in the rules of the relevant clearing house, shall apply.

The Bank is authorised by the Customer to take all relevant settlement related actions in accordance with the Market rules, including those related to delivery and payment of Financial Instruments.

2.8 The Bank's right to acquire a Financial Instrument on behalf of the seller

If it becomes evident that a Customer who has sold Financial Instrument cannot fulfil the obligation to deliver the Financial Instrument subject to the Trade within the period determined by the Market rules, the Bank can, at its own initiative and in order to fulfil the delivery obligation, borrow the Financial Instrument on its or the Customer's behalf by entering into a borrowing agreement between it and the Customer in respect of the Financial Instrument or otherwise acquire the Financial Instruments as appropriate without informing the Customer in advance. The Bank is entitled to take all necessary measures in respect of the borrowing agreement.

The Customer is responsible for all costs, including fees, taxes or other expenses and for possible damage caused by the measures referred to herein.

2.9 Payment of the purchase price

The Customer will pay the purchase price of the Financial Instrument, together with the receivables of the Bank and possible capital transfer tax payable on the Settlement date of the Trade. The payment must be at the Bank's disposal at the latest on the payment day specified in the Market rules, unless otherwise agreed between the contracting parties. The Customer is liable for any losses and expenses caused to the Bank by a delay in payment. The Customer is liable to pay default interest on the delayed amount in accordance with the applicable legislation.

The Customer authorises the Bank to debit the account stated in the Order (or otherwise informed to the Bank) with the purchase price of the Financial Instrument, and other charges and fees resulting from the Order or Trade, on the relevant Settlement dates. The Customer will ensure that the account has sufficient funds at any given time for debiting the transaction and the Bank's receivables.

The Bank will ensure that the sell price received for a Financial Instrument, less the Bank's receivables and possible capital transfer tax payable, is paid to the Customer on the Settlement date of the Trade. In cases of partial delivery, the Customer undertakes to accept partial payment. A precondition for the payment of the sell price is that the Customer has fulfilled its obligations pertaining to the Trade.

The Bank is entitled, without the Customer's instruction or consent, to cancel an entry related to a Trade made to the Customer's cash account, if the Trade was subject to contractual settlement and the Trade cannot be settled for reasons beyond the Bank's control.

The Bank is authorised by the Customer to take all relevant settlement related actions, including those related to delivery and payment of Financial Instruments.

2.10 Cancelling a Trade and leaving an Order or Requests for Quote unexecuted

A Trade executed on a Trading venue can only be cancelled according to the rules of the Trading venue. If the cancellation is caused by the Customer, the Customer is liable to compensate the Bank for any losses and expenses caused by the cancellation.

The Bank is entitled not to execute an Order if the Customer has materially failed to fulfil his or her obligations under these Terms and conditions, under some other trading agreement between the Customer and the Bank or under the Market rules, or if the Bank has reason to suspect insider dealing or market manipulation. The Customer is liable to compensate the Bank for any losses and expenses caused by this.

The Bank is entitled to refrain from taking measures to execute a Trade and may cancel an Order, if a sales reservation made in favour of the Bank is removed or otherwise becomes ineffective, or if the Financial Instruments are no longer administered by the Bank or the Customer.

3. Request for Quote handling

3.1 Request for Quote

Requests for Quote may be submitted to the Bank orally by means of telephone or in another manner separately agreed with the Customer. Request for Quote submitted by the Customer must at any given time include the following, as applicable:

- i) names of the Customer and the authorised person;
- ii) Financial Instrument type and amount or value; and
- iii) whether it concerns a buy and/or sell transaction.

The Customer is bound by and shall comply with the specific terms and conditions of the Price Quotation and the specific terms and conditions of the Contract note prepared by the Bank and the Market rules.

The Customer must respond to the Price Quotation given by the Bank immediately, unless otherwise separately agreed. A Price Quotation provided by the Bank is only valid at the time provided and any pricing is a function of the volatility of the Financial Instrument concerned and various other factors. The Bank is not under any obligation to issue a Price Quotation upon request by the Customer. A Trade is validly entered into when the Customer has accepted a Price Quotation given by the Bank and is not conditional upon a Contract note being produced or returned.

Pursuant to the terms of the Contract note and unless otherwise agreed, the Customer shall make payment to the Bank of the total amount in the stated currency not later than at the time separately agreed between the parties or, if no such time is agreed, by the time applied by the Bank from time to time, or in respect of Financial Instruments to be recorded on a custodian account/equivalent with another custodian bank, instruct the custodian to promptly make such payment or arrange for settlement of the Trade.

3.2 Settlement/purchase

Subject to the Customer having fulfilled its obligation to make payment according to the Trade in question, the Financial Instruments to which the Trade relates shall be transferred to the Customer, unless otherwise provided by law, applicable regulations, the Market rules or pursuant to separate agreement with, or instructions from the Customer:

- i) in respect of Financial Instruments for which the owner is to be registered at a CSD/equivalent or instruments which are to be recorded on a custodian account with the Bank, through the Bank undertaking the necessary registration measures;
- ii) in respect of Financial Instruments which are to be recorded on a custodian account/equivalent with another custodian bank, by the Customer instructing the custodian to arrange for settlement through the relevant CSD or regarding receipt of the instruments which are included in the Trade; and
- iii) in respect of Financial Instruments which are issued in document form, by submission to the Customer.

3.3 Failure to pay or deliver/purchase

Where, in conjunction with a sale or other disposition, the funds are insufficient to cover the Bank's entire claim, the Customer shall be liable for the difference plus default interest. In such case, the Bank shall also be entitled, in the manner stated above, to debit an account designated by the Customer for trading hereunder with the Bank.

Upon delay by the Customer to take actions as referred to above or where the Bank otherwise has good cause to do so, the Bank shall be entitled to rescind the Trade and be released from its obligations arising thereunder.

Where the Bank fails to take the necessary steps to provide the Customer with the Financial Instruments, either directly or through settlement via the CSD, within a reasonable time after the Trade was intended to settle, the Customer shall be entitled to revoke the engagement and be released from its obligations arising thereunder. If payment has been made by the Customer to the Bank, the Bank shall return such funds plus default interest.

3.4 Delivery/sale

In cases where the Customer has accepted a Price Quotation to sell Financial Instruments, the information in this provision will apply and shall not entail any limitation on any rights which the parties may accrue by virtue of law.

Pursuant to the terms of the Contract note and unless otherwise agreed with the Customer, the Bank shall acquire an unrestricted right of disposition over the Financial Instruments subject to the Trade not later than at the time separately agreed between the parties or otherwise by the time applied by the Bank from time to time. Where the Financial Instruments are owner-registered at a CSD/equivalent or recorded on a custodian account with the Bank, the Bank shall be entitled to take the necessary registration measures. In other cases, unless otherwise agreed with the Customer, the Customer shall:

- i) in respect of Financial Instruments recorded on a custodian account/equivalent with another custodian bank, immediately instruct the custodian bank to promptly arrange for settlement of the Trade through the CSD or to promptly transfer the instruments covered by the Trade to the Bank;
- ii) in respect of Financial Instruments which are issued in document form, submit these to the Bank; and
- iii) otherwise, take such measures as are necessary to afford the Bank an unrestricted right of disposition of the Financial Instruments.

3.5 Settlement/ sale

Subject to the Customer having fulfilled its obligation to take necessary measures according to the Trade in question, the Customer shall, unless otherwise provided by law, applicable regulation, the Market rules or or pursuant to a separate agreement with or instructions from the Customer, receive from the Bank, either directly or through settlement via the CSD, the stated net amount according to the Contract note not later than by the time separately agreed between the parties, by the time the Customer has agreed with its custodian bank or, if no such time is agreed, by the time applied by the Bank or the custodian bank, as applicable, from time to time.

For this purpose, unless settlement is made through the CSD, the Bank shall be entitled to credit an account which the Customer has designated for trading hereunder with the Bank or shall otherwise pay such amounts in accordance with the Customer's instructions.

3.6 Failure to pay or deliver/ sale

Where the Bank does not obtain an unrestricted right of disposition of the instruments concurrently with acceptance of the Price Quotation by the Customer or within any other agreed period, or where settlement is made through the CSD, such settlement does not take place, the Bank may fulfil the agreement vis-à-vis any counterparty (if applicable) by providing the counterparty with other Financial instruments of the same type in the manner that it finds appropriate. The Customer shall compensate the Bank for any costs thereof or market risk incurred plus default interest. The Bank shall be further entitled to postpone payment of the funds related to the Trade. In the event the Customer takes the necessary measures later than 12:00 pm on a given Business day, the Bank shall be entitled to regard the measures as taken on the subsequent Business day.

Moreover, the Customer shall compensate the Bank for its work, costs and, where applicable, losses. The Bank may debit an account which the Customer has designated for trading hereunder with the Bank, in order to obtain payment for its claim. Where no account has been designated the Customer shall make payment to the Bank pursuant to a separate agreement or failing such agreement, in accordance with the Contract note. If the designated account has insufficient funds, the Customer shall make payment to the Bank by other means as soon as possible or as agreed between the parties.

Upon delay by the Customer to take actions as referred to above or where the Bank otherwise has good cause to do so, the Customer authorises the Bank to rescind the Trade and be released from its obligations arising thereunder.

Where the Customer has taken necessary measures in conjunction with the Trade, but the Bank fails to make payment, either directly or through settlement via the CSD, in respect of the Trade within a reasonable time after the Trade was intended to settle, the Customer shall be entitled to revoke the Trade and be released from its obligations arising thereunder. If delivery of securities has been made by the Customer to the Bank, the Bank shall return such securities plus default interest on the amount that should have been paid by the Bank.

III Additional services for Trading

1. Right to use the services of external Broker

As set out in the Nordea Execution Policy, the Bank has the right to use an external Broker when executing an Order without informing the Customer of each instance in advance. If the Bank uses the services of an external Broker, unless otherwise agreed with the external Broker, the external Broker's execution policy is applied to the execution of Orders.

If the Customer wants to give an Order to a Trading venue of which the Bank is not a member, the Bank seeks to select the external Broker it uses with care but is not responsible for such external Broker's actions or inactions. If the action or inaction of an external Broker results in losses to the Customer, the Bank will seek to help in taking measures considered reasonable to collect damages from the external party causing the losses. If the Bank receives compensation from the external party, it will pay the Customer the proportion of the received compensation the Customer is entitled to without undue delay.

2. The Bank's right of lien and right of retention

The Bank has a lien over and the right of retention to Financial Instrument belonging to or acquired on behalf of the Customer for unpaid transaction fees, possible asset transfer tax levied or possible other tax, the Bank's own fee or other possible costs caused to be borne by the Bank, costs and default interest according to the applicable legislation or for other loss caused, or amount owed by the Customer, to the Bank relating to services provided to the Customer. If the Customer does not pay a matured receivable, or any other due obligation to the Bank, the Bank has the right to sell such Financial Instrument without any further hearing of the Customer in a way it deems best. The price received for the Financial Instrument and possibly matured return is used to pay the matured receivable and to compensate any possible losses and expenses caused to be borne by the Bank. If there are any remaining funds after the above-mentioned deductions, such funds will be refunded to the Customer.

To protect its receivables, the Bank is entitled to enter into a right of lien (pledge registration) or transfer restriction in respect of the Customer's Financial Instrument account or safe custody and to close the Customer's cash account.

To ensure the fulfilment of obligations relating to settlement of a Trade, the Bank has a right of lien (right to register a pledge) over a Customer's Financial Instrument. This right is also applicable to a sold or purchased Financial Instrument which has been delivered to a sub-custodian, clearing house or clearing party for settlement of a Trade.

3. Currency exchange and exchange rate risk

Unless otherwise agreed with the Customer, the Bank has the right to make a foreign exchange trade required for the execution of an Order or Price Quotation on behalf of the Customer. The Customer is liable for the costs arising from the exchange of currency and bears any risks arising from the fluctuation of exchange rates.

4. Authorisation and instructions related to the Order or Request for Quote

If an Authorised person acts on behalf of the Customer, the Customer will ensure that such Authorised person is familiar with and complies with these Terms and conditions.

5. Reporting, complaints and duty to inform

The Customer is responsible for checking all documentation received from the Bank, including but not limited to notifications of executed Orders (calculation of purchase or sale) and Contract notes.

The Customer must notify errors to the Bank immediately. The Customer is considered to have received the documentation within seven (7) calendar days from the date of the documentation.

A Customer that is a private person must notify errors to the relevant Bank within a reasonable time after the Customer becomes aware of, or should have been aware of, such errors.

If the Trade is not executed, the time limit for the Customer's complaint begins when the validity of the Order or Price Quotation ends.

The Bank will regard the Customer as having approved documentation if no notification is made within the above-mentioned time limits.

The Customer has to inform the Bank without undue delay of any changes in the information it has given to the Bank. The Bank is not liable for any damages resulting from the Customer not having notified it of such changes.

The Customer has to inform the Bank if the Customer is conducting a short sale and whether the short sale was conducted under a short sale exemption.

The Bank is not obligated to inform the Customer of any class action lawsuits concerning a Financial Instrument, even if the Bank is aware of such lawsuit.

6. Post-Trade Transparency reporting

The Bank shall conduct Trade reporting in accordance with MiFID II using Data Reporting Services Providers such as APA.

7. Transaction reporting to Authorities

The Bank shall conduct transaction reporting to competent authorities in accordance with MiFID II by using an appropriate ARM or by sending data directly to the eligible financial supervisory authority.

If the Customer is an investment firm (as defined under MiFID II), the Bank shall solely report such transactions from its own perspective, and the Customer shall remain solely responsible for its own reporting of such transactions under MiFID II unless otherwise agreed.

8. Market action and product intervention

The Bank may refuse to enter into, execute, transmit, deal in or otherwise arrange any Customer Order or perform any obligation pursuant to the Terms and conditions where such action or performance: (i) would cause the Bank to breach any prohibition or restriction imposed or specified by an applicable regulator, competent authority or the Market rules; and (ii) would be prohibited, or made impracticable to effect on reasonably commercial terms, by any suspension or removal from trading of a Financial Instrument imposed by an applicable regulator, competent authority or the Market rules.

9. Fees, commissions and charges

The Bank charges the Customer for its services fees, costs and/or commissions in accordance with its fee schedules valid at any given time or as separately agreed with the Customer.

If the price of an individual transaction or service has not been determined in the fee schedules or it has not been agreed between the parties, the Bank is entitled to charge the Customer for the fees and expenses arising from the transaction or service.

The Customer shall pay to the Bank all fees, commissions, costs, charges and default interests.

10. Recording of phone calls and records of electronic communication

The Bank is entitled to record telephone conversations and keep records of electronic communication with the Customer that concern the Trading services provided under these Terms and conditions. The Bank is required to provide the records to competent authorities upon their request for the last 7 years in accordance with the applicable legislation. The Customer has also the right to request for such recordings for the last 5 years.
