

Copenhagen, Helsinki, Oslo, Stockholm, 11 July 2013 1(1)

Jan Larsson leaves Nordea

Jan Larsson, Head of Group Identity & Communications (GIC), has accepted an offer to become deputy party secretary and head of the election campaign for the Swedish Social Democratic Party.

- I would like to thank Janne for his contributions in shaping the future relationship bank by developing Nordea's communication both internally and externally. I wish him the best of luck in his future positions, says Christian Clausen, Group CEO.

Claus Christensen, who is today head of the Strategy and Coordination unit in GIC, will take over his responsibilities as acting head of GIC as of today. Jan Larsson, who has been head of GIC for more than four years, will stay with Nordea until 1 September to ensure a good handover of tasks and duties.

For further information:

Claus Christensen, Group Identity & Communications, +45 33 33 12 79

Nordea's vision is to be a Great European bank, acknowledged for its people, creating superior value for customers and shareholders. We are making it possible for our customers to reach their goals by providing a wide range of products, services and solutions within banking, asset management and insurance. Nordea has around 11 million customers, approximately 1,000 branch office locations and is among the ten largest universal banks in Europe in terms of total market capitalisation. The Nordea share is listed on the NASDAQ OMX Nordic Exchange in Stockholm, Helsinki and Copenhagen.